Every teenager feels stressed at times. There are different kinds of troubles, such as academic pressures, family issues and (26) _____ with peers . We must say that they are the main things that teens have to cope with on a daily basis. None of us can avoid stress completely. (27) _____, according to psychologists, there are various things we can do to reduce our stress levels.

Firstly, it's important to exercise (28) _____, and avoid eating unhealthy food. It is also important to take time (29)_____ every day to do something that makes you happy. It may be listening to your favourite music, talking to a friend, or simply spending time with a pet.

It is always helpful to talk about your problems with (30) _____ whether that's a friend, your parents or a teacher. As the saying goes, "A problem shared, is a problem halved!"

Part 5. Read the following passage and write the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the questions.

It used to be that people would drink coffee or tea in the morning to pick them up and get them going for the day. Then cola drinks hit the market. With lots of caffeine and sugar, these beverages soon became the pick-me-up of choice for many adults and teenagers. Now drink companies are putting out so-called "energy drinks." These beverages have the specific aim of giving tired consumers more energy.

One example of a popular energy drink is Red Bull. The company that puts out this beverage has stated in interviews that Red Bull is not a thirst quencher. Nor is it meant to be a fluid replacement drink for athletes. Instead, the beverage is meant to revitalize a tired consumer's body and mind. In order to do this, the makers of Red Bull, and other energy drinks, typically add vitamins and certain chemicals to their beverages. The added chemicals are like chemicals that the body naturally produces for energy. The vitamins, chemicals, caffeine, and sugar found in these beverages all seem like a sure bet to give a person energy.

Health professionals are not so sure, though. For one thing, there is not enough evidence to show that all of the vitamins added to energy drinks actually raise a person's energy level. Another problem is that there are so many things in the beverages. Nobody knows for sure how all of the ingredients in energy drinks work together.

Dr. Brent Bauer, one of the directors at the Mayo Clinic in the US, cautions people about believing all the claims energy drinks make. He says, "It is plausible if you put all these things together, you will get a good result." However, Dr. Bauer adds the mix of ingredients could also have a negative impact on the body. "We just don't know at this point," he says.

31. What is the main idea of this passage?

- A. Caffeine is bad for people to drink. B. It is uncertain whether energy drinks are healthy.
C. Red Bull is the best energy drink. D. Teenagers should not choose energy drinks.

32. The word "it" in the second paragraph refers to _____.

- A. one example B. the company C. Red Bull D. thirst quencher

33. According to the passage, what makes it difficult for researchers to know if an energy drink gives people energy?

- A. Natural chemicals in a person's body B. The average age of the consumer
C. The number of beverage makers D. The mixture of various ingredients

34. The word "plausible" in the passage is closest in meaning to _____.

- A. impossible B. reasonable C. typical D. unlikely

35. Which of the following is NOT true according to the passage?

- A. Bauer does not seem to believe the claims of energy drink makers.
B. Colas have been on the market longer than energy drinks.
C. It has been scientifically proved that energy drinks work.
D. The makers of Red Bull say that it can revitalize a person.
